GAME WITH BIRMINGHAM CLUB DECIDED IN FAVOR OF LATTER

On the night of the 16th the Auburn sure went up against the toughest proposition of the basket ball season. They played the B. A. C. in Birmingham. This team was champion of the south last year and by the result of their defeating Auburn they have a good claim on the championship this season. Too bad for Auburn, but we can't win all the time.

The game was the fastest of the season and resembled the Yale-Athletic Club game very much. When the teams lined up for the scrimmage it was Greek meeting Greek for four members of the Auburn team are also members of the B. A. C., and Woodruff, Ware and Gibson were members of the B. A. C., team last year. Right here it can be said that should the B. A. C., have the Auburn forwards, the B. A. C., guards and center they could defeat any team south of the Ohio and many teams in the east. The B. A. C., guards are the fastest and safest guards in the south but their forwards are weak and showed their weakness in the Auburn game. Auburn's forwards showed their strength and agility, but they were up against Biddle and Jones. For this reason their scoring was not very large. Each of our forwards scored two goals and Jones at center got two goals and threw one on foul. Ware got an extra point for being fouled by Biddle while he was attempting a field goal.

Birmingham led off with the scoring by a goal by Biddle after several minutes of play. Auburn did not score for sometime but finally Jones threw a goal from foul. A few moments later Ware made a good goal from field but was fouled by Biddle, thereby getting three points for the goal. From this time on it was see-saw, up and down the field with both teams. The teams were never over three points apart in score. For a while the B. A. C., led, then Auburn took the lead. At times the pace was simply lightning fast and neither team seemed able to score. The excitement was intense as each team had their backing of rooters.

The first half ended eight to six in favor of the B. A. C. They were two points in the lead near the end of the second half when Woodruff caught Jones asleep and made an easy goal tying the game with score of 14 to 14. After this, neither team scored and it remained a tie when time was called for the last half. At this stage of the game everything was noise and excitement. The rules of the game say that when a game is tied at the expiration of the second half the teams shall then proceed to play the tie off and the team first scoring two points is declared the winner of the game. When Auburn's manager called time and instructed the teams to play the tie off Captain Jones, of Auburn refused to play and called Auburn from the field. Birmingham again asked him to proceed and upon his second refusal Referee Warner was forced by the rules of the game to declare the game forfeited to Birmingham by a score of two to nothing.

Captain Jones said the reason for not playing the game out was that Umpire Larrimore had given Auburn the hot end of decisions on fouls. In the eyes of many spectators this seemed true, but some conservative players and old timers said that they did not believe that Larrimore meant to show any partiality whatever but only labored to secure a clean game. Many sided with Captain Jones in his action and many others did not agree with him. From an unbiased standpoint, Auburn should have stuck the game out, win or lose, and should have showed the spirit of fighting under difficulties. It was the general opinion that had Auburn proceeded to play they would have won out in the end. As it stands now Auburn has to be contented with the inter-collegiate championship alone.

The following men played the entire game for Auburn and Birmingham

Auburn	Birmingham
F. Jones (Capt.)	C. L. Berry (Capt.)
Woodruff	R. F. W. Biddle
	S. Jones
Ware	L. F. McBride
Lacey	R. G. E. Jones
Whittaker	L. G. Joe Biddle
Substitutes: Auburn—Gibson, Hall, Craker, Moore, Hardie.

B. A. C.—Spencer, S. Jones.
Score—Auburn 0, B. A. C. 2.

Professor Thach was growing eloquent in his discussion of Julius Caesar, Brutus and others as portrayed by Shakespeare. Wishing to discover how much the class really knew he asked, "What time is it?" expecting that the reply would be the feast of the Lupercal, 44 B. C., three o'clock in the morning, but he was dazed when a tired, sleepy youth in the rear loudly exclaimed, "Ten minutes since the time was up, Sir."

THE MORNING AFTER.

One morning last week, after a night of festivity, a postal card was found in a poor fellow's room, while he was yet asleep, illustrating what regrets may come:

Dear Bill:

Don't send the qt. I wrote you for. Your friend, W.—e.

John D. Rockefeller has announced his fourteenth gift to the University of Chicago. This time it is $1,000,000.—Dr.

SENIOR PRIVILEGES.

It is very rare that a charter of liberties is freely and voluntarily conferred by an power. They are most usually preceded by a petition of some sort. And so it was with the privileges now enjoyed by the Senior class. Although all sense of enjoyment of the mand all sense of how dear they seemed to the class of '92 has long since ceased to exist. Like the right of freedom of religion and the right to vote, they have come to be looked upon as inalienable and indefeasible rights, without any appreciation of the fact that there was a time when they did not exist. However, such is not the case, for the ex-military privilege and the privilege of aiding in maintaining discipline were not obtained by voluntary act of the powers that be, but only after a season of petitioning. And as all such documents have a historical value, we publish herewith a copy of what we believe to be the first set of resolutions presented to the faculty petitioning for the privileges now enjoyed.

Resolutions of the Senior Class Session 1901-92.

Resolved, First, That in requesting privileges that are due the Senior Class we act as a whole, concurring in the course decided upon by the majority of the class.

Second, That we pledge ourselves to be diligent in performing our duties and will aid the college authorities to the extent of our power in maintaining order and discipline.

Third, That we realize the importance of dignity in the Senior Class, and will do all that is possible to set a good example to cadets under us.

Fourth, That we as a class condemn unfairness in examinations known as cheating.

Fifth, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the faculty and that a copy be posted on the bulletin board.

A. and M. C., Oct, 1891.

IT ALL SEEMED SO UNNECESSARY

A city man once had occasion, says "Lippincott's Magazine," to stop at a country home where a tin basin and a roller-towel on the back porch sufficed for the family's ablutions. For two mornings the "hired man" of the household watched in silence the visitor's efforts at making a toilette under the unfavorable auspices, but when on the third day the tooth-brush, nail-file, whisk-broom, etc., had been duly used and returned to their places in the traveler's grip, he could suppress his curiosity no longer, so boldly put the question: "Say, mister, air you always that much trouble to yourself?"

TWO FINE LECTURES TO STUDENTS BY DR. JOHN JENKINS LLOYD JONES

On Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon of March the tenth and eleventh the doctor, John Jenkins Jones lectured the student body in Langdon Hall. Dr. Jones came to Auburn at the request and invitation of the faculty of this institute. He is professor of Psychology at the University of Chicago and is a man of profound and decided ability.

He was introduced to his audience as minister, lecturer, editor and author.

As a lecturer he gave evidence of wonderful power in the delivery and treatment of both of the lectures given here.

There was a peculiar and fascinating sweetness in his voice that eloquently threaded itself into the theme and body of his subject and aroused in emotional thought visions of life that words alone could never portray. It was this with his beautiful and attractive literary style that made a strong and ardent plea in the name of education and culture.

His first subject, one naturally interesting—Victor Hugo—was responsive to his touch of genius and readily developed into a treatise of well digested facts.

With a vivid rehearsal of the incidents that crowded into the life of this famous and remarkable character he discussed the principles and policies for which Hugo so valiantly and courageously stood in his public and political capacity.

The amazing precocity of power found in Hugo as a boy made him begin early a vigorous and active career.

His inexhaustible resource and variety thus had a long and brilliant range. In this he immortalized himself as poet, dramatist, novelist, historian and philosopher. As these he was variously pictured in the course of the discussion which in effect gradually merged into a translation of greatness, marvelous and grand.

Dr. Jones' second lecture, was one in which he ventured more freely and boldly upon the mysterious and secret forces of life.

The subject under which this was developed was "The Three Reverences."

He began by describing the exclusive and selfish bond uniting the crude and untutored impulses influencing the human mind in earliest infancy.

From this point his scope broadened and separated into three magnificent views of life penetrating far back into the divinity of the soul of man and exploring him in the region of all his faculties.

The first of these directed the gaze toward the high and exalted heavens. For therein might be found the reverence which should principally be mantled in the sincerity of love. It was found in the silent and profound movement of the stars shining out in acknowledgement of an omnipotence that spoke of the Creator.

Next the head was bowed in an attitude of appreciative respect to view the wonders of the earth.

Here the cultured mind leaps into a recognition of beauty and attribute and sees embodied in all things a sublime and infinite truth. The surrounding landscape, fragrant in the breath of flowers and dyed in sunset hues encompasses a vast and potent field.

The very brute in this realm commands a deferential regard. The cold stones scattered heedlessly around need only be taken into the custody of a close observer to reveal and tell the story of ages. Thus the second reverence was extended to the things of the earth.

The third and last reverence taken with the eyes glancing first to the right and then to the left that the individual life might be so regulated as to harmoniously conform to the alignment of surrounding adjustments.

In this was conceived the human sanctities which were one after another reviewed in detail.

The graces, virtues, privileges, blessings, motives and ambitions of physical and moral character were all registered among these sanctities and demanded a reverential approval of the laws and forces adjusting them.

Dr. Jones so concluded his discourse as to leave a deep and lingering impression on the minds of all.

SHORT SERMONS FOR BOYS.

A Swedish boy fell out of a window and was badly hurt, but with quenched lips he kept back the cry of pain. The king, Gustavus Adolphus, who saw him fall, prophesied that the boy would make a man for an emergency. And so he did, for he became the famous Gen. Bauer.

A boy used to crush the flowers to get their color, and painted the white side of his father's cottage in Tyrol with all sorts of pictures, which the mountaineers gazed at as wonderful. He was the great artist, Titian.

An old painter watched a little fellow who amused himself making drawings of his pot and brushes, easel and stool, and said, "That boy will beat me one day." And he did, for he was Michael Angelo.

A german boy was reading a blood-and-thunder novel. Right in the midst of it he said to himself: "Now, this will never do. I get too much excited over it, I can't study so well after it. So, here it goes!" and he flung the book out into the river. He was Plato, the great German philosopher.—Dr.

Holland, the ex-Clemson football and baseball star, is working with Montgomery in the southern league.

The track team of the Georgia Tech will be with us on May 1st, sophomore day, and we anticipate a happy holiday.

Mr. Craighead's lecture on "Government" contained many instructive remarks. We hope this talented editor shall be with us again in the near future.

All photos intended for the Glomerata must be in by the 28th. So, if you want your "face" in the book, don't fail to give your photo to the proper officer.

The lecture by Dr. Lloyd J. Jones at Chicago University was a literary feast. It was on a high plane and was interesting and entertaining as well as highly instructive.

It has been rumored that no mid-term examinations would be held this term, but we have heard no confirmation of the rumor. As for us, we can't believe it: it's too good to be true.

The cold weather of last week prevented the game with the Philadelphia Americans, which was scheduled for Friday. An effort will be made to arrange a game with the same team for this week.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has donated $20,000 to the Georgia Tech for the purpose of establishing a library, the only condition being that the board of trustees provide $2,000.00 per year for its maintenance.

The baseball squad has been cut down considerably, and the fellows are getting some stiff work every day. Some of the new men are showing better form and the old ones are getting in shape. It seems well to say that we'll have a team which will uphold the enviable reputation we made last year.

Those fellows who are interested in track athletics should report at once for regular work. Manager Boyd has arranged meets with Georgia and Tech and we must prepare for these contests. Give your name to Coach Donahue or Captain Wright and help us out.

The basket ball with the Birmingham Athletic Club last Friday night ended in a tie. We are very sorry that the tie was not played off, but, from our point of view, the circumstances were such that it would have been useless for us to play longer. Next year, it may be, we'll have another game.

Dr. L. W. Payne, '92, has severed his connection with the Lippincott Co., and is at present filling the chair of English at the University of Louisiana, which position he will hold until the end of the present session. Next September he will go to Amherst College, Mass., where he has accepted the chair of English.

Our first college games will be played next week with Cumberland University. We are to play them three games on our campus. Now, fellows, we must treat these fellows and beat them bad; but at the same time, we must remember that they are our guests and must treat them as such. Come out on the field and yell, yell loud, but don't make our visitors ashamed.

The college presidents who recently convened at Washington, reported that the students of Louisiana State University have the most highly developed honor system in the United States.—Mr.

A FRESHMAN'S LETTER.

The following letter was found in a poor fellow's room while that poor fellow wasn't looking. It needs no explanation.

Auburn, Ala., March 7, '06
Miss Stella Adams,
Galt, California.

My Dear Miss Adams:
Reading over the "American Woman," I found a list of names of persons who want to correspond. I take the pleasure and the honor, the esteemed honor, to write you a letter. No doubt you have heard of Auburn. I will try to give you a short concise description of our little town of "Education." It is situated near the central portion of Lee county, Western part of Alabama, on the Western of Alabama railway, 116 miles from Atlanta and 59 miles from Montgomery, the capitol of the state. There are about 1200 inhabitants here, 560 of which are college students, and I myself figure in that number of whom I will tell you more about at the close of this letter.

The name of our institute is the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It was built in 1887, it was then known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College but it was burned down in 1787 and was rebuilt in '87 and '88 and changed its name of which I have given you already.

Any one can pursue most any kind of course here from a general to a technical course. The institution ranks next to the highest in the South. Last but not least I will tell you how I stand here in the institute. I am in the Freshman class. I call myself a 09 man, that is when the Freshmen will finish. The old men, that is the men that were in college preceeding the present session, call the new men "Rat," they go round and haze the new boys. They have heaps of fun too. College closes June 1, then we will have a fine time commencement. From what I know of California you have a delightful climate over there. I have two reasons why I write you, but don't think they are the only ones, first because I know several Adams and a pretty little girl by your name.

Now in conclusion I wish you would not completely ignore this and take in due consideration as I have written in truth and sincerity. Write Soon.

Your beloved new correspondent,
_____09.

THE GLOMERATA.

All the material for the Glomerata must be sent in to the printer by the 1st. of April and this of course gives a very short margin for the stuff to be turned over to the Glomerata Board.

Mr. Abbott will be here Friday March 23rd. and Monday March 26th and these are positively the last days on which pictures can be made for publication in this year's book—and it will be much better to have them made Friday.

The list members of the different clubs, classes, societies, fraternities and class histories must be in by Mar. 20th and it will greatly aid the board if these lists are sent in type-written or at least plainly written.

So if you have anything to be turned in do so at once either to Mr. Reed or Mr. Certain, and if you are in a group still to be made, please see Mr. Reed at once and have a check put for it. By doing this the work of the board will be greatly lightened and they can have more time to prepare other work. Submit all work to the board in this manner and you will do your part for a good Glomerata book.

Holland, the ex-Clemson football and baseball star, is working with the Georgia Tech team.

The track team of the Georgia Tech will be with us on May 1st, sophomore day, and we anticipate a happy holiday.

Mr. Craighead's lecture on "Government" contained many instructive remarks. We hope this talented editor shall be with us again in the near future.

All photos intended for the Glomerata must be in by the 28th. So, if you want your "face" in the book, don't fail to give your photo to the proper officer.

The lecture by Dr. Lloyd J. Jones at Chicago University was a literary feast. It was on a high plane and was interesting and entertaining as well as highly instructive.

It has been rumored that no mid-term examinations would be held this term, but we have heard no confirmation of the rumor. As for us, we can't believe it: it's too good to be true.

The cold weather of last week prevented the game with the Philadelphia Americans, which was scheduled for Friday. An effort will be made to arrange a game with the same team for this week.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has donated $20,000 to the Georgia Tech for the purpose of establishing a library, the only condition being that the board of trustees provide $2,000.00 per year for its maintenance.

The baseball squad has been cut down considerably, and the fellows are getting some stiff work every day. Some of the new men are showing better form and the old ones are getting in shape. It seems well to say that we'll have a team which will uphold the enviable reputation we made last year.

Those fellows who are interested in track athletics should report at once for regular work. Manager Boyd has arranged meets with Georgia and Tech and we must prepare for these contests. Give your name to Coach Donahue or Captain Wright and help us out.

The basket ball with the Birmingham Athletic Club last Friday night ended in a tie. We are very sorry that the tie was not played off, but, from our point of view, the circumstances were such that it would have been useless for us to play longer. Next year, it may be, we'll have another game.

Dr. L. W. Payne, '92, has severed his connection with the Lippincott Co., and is at present filling the chair of English at the University of Louisiana, which position he will hold until the end of the present session. Next September he will go to Amherst College, Mass., where he has accepted the chair of English.

Our first college games will be played next week with Cumberland University. We are to play them three games on our campus. Now, fellows, we must beat those fellows and beat them bad; but at the same time, we must remember that they are our guests and must treat them as such. Come out on the field and yell, yell loud, but don't make our visitors feel bad.

The college presidents who recently convened at Washington, reported that the students of Louisiana State University have the most highly developed honor system in the United States.—Ex.

A FRESHMAN'S LETTER.

The following letter was found in a poor fellow's room while that poor fellow wasn't looking. It needs no explanation.

Auburn, Ala., March 7, '06
Miss Stella Adams,
Galt, California.

My Dear Miss Adams:

Reading over the "American Woman," I found a list of names of persons who want to correspond. I take the pleasure and the honor, the esteemed honor, to write you a letter. No doubt you have heard of Auburn. I will try to give you a short concise description of our little town of "Education." It is situated near the central portion of Lee county, Western part of Alabama, on the Western of Alabama railway, 116 miles from Atlanta and 59 miles from Montgomery, the capitol of the state. There are about 1200 inhabitants here, 560 of which are college students, and I myself figure in that number of whom I will tell you more about at the close of this letter.

The name of our institute is the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. It was built in 1887, it was then known as the Agricultural and Mechanical College but it was burned down in 1787 and was rebuilt in '87 and '88 and changed its name of which I have given you already.

Any one can pursue most any kind of course here from a general to a technical course. The institution ranks next to the highest in the South. Last but not least I will tell you how I stand here in the institute. I am in the Freshman class. I call myself a 09 man, that's when the Freshmen will finish. The old men, that is the men that were in college preceding the present session, call the new men "Rat," they go on and on about the new boys. They have saps of fun too. College closes June 1, then we will have a fine time commencement. From what I know of California you have a delightful climate over there. I have two reasons why I write you, but don't think they are the only ones, first because I know several Adams and a pretty little girl by your name.

Now in conclusion I wish you would not completely ignore this and take in due consideration as I have written in truth and sincerity. Write Soon.

Your beloved new correspondent,

THE GLOMERATA.

All the material for the Glomerata must be sent in to the printer by the 1st of April and this of course gives a very short margin for the stuff to be turned over to the Glomerata Board.

Mr. Abbott will be here Friday March 23rd and Monday March 26th and these are positively the last days on which pictures can be made for publication in this year's book—and it will be much better to have them made Friday.

The list members of the different clubs, classes, societies, fraternities and class histories must be in by Mar. 28th and it will greatly aid the board if these lists are sent in type-written or at least plainly written.

So if you have anything to be turned in do so at once either to Mr. Hood or Mr. Certain, and if you are in a group still to be made, please see Mr. Hood at once and have a date set for it. By doing this the work of the board will be greatly lightened and they can have more time to put on other work connected with the book and in this manner you will do your part for a good Glomerata this year.

CONCERT MONDAY NIGHT.

The Temple Quartette Concert Company, of Boston, entertained a large audience in Langdon Hall the night of March 19. The evening was most pleasantly spent listening to the superb selections rendered by the quartette, the solos of Mr. Tripp the tenor and Mr. Baker, the baritone, and the magnificently delivered pieces of elocution by Miss Nichols, a graduate of the Emerson school of oratory. Every number was heartily enjoyed but the greatest hits of the evening were the "Phantom Band" by the quartette and "Keeping a Seat at the Benefit," by Miss Nichols. The following was the program:

Temple Quartette
"The Little One" .....
..... Richard Harding Davis.
Miss Nichols
"Beloved, it is Morn," .... Aylward
Mr. Baker
"Phantom Band" ..... Thayer
Temple Quartette.
"Twilight is Falling" ..... Strelezki
Mr. Tripp
Scenes from "Under Two Flags" ....
..... Oulda
Miss Nichols
"Sunset" ..... Van de Water
Temple quartette
"The Old Grave Yard" .... Rodney
Mr. Steele
"Keeping a Seat at the Benefit" ....
..... Fiske
Miss Nichols
"Abide With Me" ..... W. A. Potter
Written for the Temple Quartette.
"On Gallant Company" ..... Becquer

MISS DILLARD ENTERTAINS.

One of the most delightfully charming of the numerous functions in honor of Miss Lillie Taylor, the attractive guest of Mrs. Ross, was that tendered on the evening of Thursday last by Miss Annie Dillard at the home of Mrs. McNamee.

The spacious parlors were appropriately decorated in honor of the approach of St. Patrick's Day, the green being interspersed with occasional bouquets of beautiful japonicas.

The game indulged in was "Ricky Ann," an intensely interesting game played with "Trail" cards. The ladies prize, a very beautiful souvenir was captured by Miss Allie Glenn, the gentleman's, a handsome green tie, falling appropriately to Mr. Shi. The consolation was drawn by Mr. J. V. Denson. All the prizes were delivered by Mr. Thomas Bragg in his own inimitable way.

In her most charming manner the hostess served the most delightful refreshments consisting of bon bons, fruit punch and the most luscious fruit cake ever tasted.

The speeding hours passed all too soon, but the end must come, and the guests departed heartily congratulating the charming hostess upon the success of the whole affair.

Those present were: Misses Taylor, Dowdell, Toomer, Glenn, Harvey, Drake, Anderson, Hollifield, Thomas and Harwell.

Messrs. Patrick, Toomer, Hill, Ransom, Rutland, Herndon, Donohue, Bragg, Samford, Shi and Denson.

IN HONOR OF MISS TAYLOR.

The climax of artistic entertainment was reached on last Friday evening when Mrs. Clara Glenn Perry entertained in honor of Miss Lillie Taylor.

Her beautiful home on Gay street was thrown open to the fortunate guests and hospitality was in the air. The beautiful decorations lent an additional charm and the whole produced a very maze of joyful forgetfulness.

"Ricky Ann," that newly devised and interesting game was enjoyed as a pleasant pastime, constant conversation adding zest to the game. At the end of this, delicious refreshments, consisting of strawberries and cream, with angel food cake, were served at the tables, in a most charming manner by Misses Glenn, Dillard and Drake.

The ladies' prize was awarded to Miss Emma Harvey, the gentlemen's going to Mr. Denson.

Miss Taylor was presented with a gorgeous bouquet of Japonicas.

The unique feature was the arrow contest, in which the gentlemen chose by chance the ladies whom they should escort home. The whole affair was immensely enjoyed. The guests were:

Misses Taylor, Harvey, May, Harvey, Anderson, Harwell, Averyt, Madge Averyt, Samford Beasley, Hollifield, Messrs. Rutland, Shi, Samford, Denson, Troger, McErwin, Spain, Ewing, and Black

The students of the A. P. I. and the people of Auburn enjoyed a rare intellectual and spiritual feast in the lectures and sermon of Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones, professor of psychology in the University of Chicago. His personality is winning, his mind richly stored, and his heart overflowing with love for all humanity. As he spoke of man's high destiny, of the glorious possibilities of life, of the height yet unattained, his hearers felt a thrill of larger aspiration to reach the lofty plane on which he stood and to see the magnificence of holiness which seemed spread out before him. No attentive listener to these lectures will ever be his former sordid self again.

Mrs. Dunstan's luncheon on Saturday, the 10th inst., was most enjoyable, the young ladies say. They played "stock," and they have promised to learn the boys how. They made no promise about the toothsome salad which Mrs. Dunstan served, for they admit they can never hope to make as good. Miss Marion Anderson won the prize in the game. Miss Taylor was guest of honor and was presented with a bouquet of beautiful carnations. There were present Misses Taylor, Thomas, Anderson, Drake, Alexander, Dowdell, Burton, Samford, Emma and May Harvey, Camilla and Modesta Bosley, Annie and Midge Averyt and Mrs. Crozier of Chattanooga.

HISTORICAL FRESHMEN.

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men."

Trusting that this proverb will apply also to others than the wisest men, the following "bulls", are presented, not in the spirit of criticism, but rather in the spirit of gratitude. These examples are taken literally from the examination papers all true to life.

In answering the question "What was Jackson's 'Kitchen Cabinet'?" the following was written, no doubt with a sincere belief in its correctness: "When Jackson came into office he had a little cabinet of his own; this was called his 'Kitchen Cabinet'. It was called this because they came in the back way." How is that for logical deduction.

No less logical is the statement that "the Panama congress of 1826 was a congress that made laws for Panama, and the U. S., was not a member," but the statement in answer to the same question that "the Panama congress of 1826 was the uniting of European powers to cut a canal through Panama" gives final proof of the fact that the poor Freshmen are not yet diplomatic philosophers.

One would naturally suppose that the Freshman who said that "a decided American victory during the war of 1812 was the Declaration of Independence on July 4," was either under the influence of inebriating stimulants or else not to "the manor born," and such indeed he was.

But to end, in speaking of a revised method of spelling, we hope the reform will not be similar to that of the Freshman who, in his intention to spell militia, combined for that purpose the following letters, mallisor.

THAT FRESHMAN CLASS.

The Freshman had a president. His name was D. C. Craker. He didn't get his office fair And they said he was a faker.

That the class had a meeting, By "Rat" Mason it was called. The president lost his job And was certainly appalled.

The Freshmen yelled, and they got hot, But Craker, he was cold; For over the class of 1909, He could not get control.

All were giving their decrees, Except a goodly few, When Craker's mind was suddenly eased, By the coming of Coach Donahue.

He soon broke up the rough-house, And sent them all away, He said that he himself would rule, At the meeting on next Tuesday.

Whether he is right or wrong Is troubling Craker's mind, For if he's right he's president, If not, he must resign.

Here's hoping Craker's right, And that he'll not resign, So Dowdell's ranch will have two presidents, One of '06 and one of '05.

Engineer Wallace, who quit the canal job, is now drawing $35,000 a year from the Westinghouse concern. A man with that sort of salary ought to be able to sustain a large check of Secretary Taft's approval—Houston Post.

The students of the A. P. I. and the people of Auburn enjoyed a rare intellectual and spiritual feast in the lectures and sermon of Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones, professor of psychology in the University of Chicago. His personality is winning, his mind richly stored, and his heart overflowing with love for all humanity. As he spoke of man's high destiny, of the glorious possibilities of life, of the height yet unattained, his hearers felt a thrill of larger aspiration to reach the lofty plane on which he stood and to see the magnificence of holiness which seemed spread out before him. No attentive listener to these lectures will ever be his former sordid self again.
